The Ultimate Text Messaging Translation Tool for your Cellular Telephone

Compadre:Message™ is the ultimate translation tool to use with your cellular telephone. With Message, now you can use your cellular telephone to send and receive messages in any language. Simply enter your text message, send it, and Message automatically translates it into the desired language(s). Message also gives you the option of listening to the translation, so in addition to seeing the results, you can hear them. For both communicating with others and learning new languages, Message is your solution.

Your Languages

With Message, you select your preferred language(s). When you receive a text message, these preferences are used to automatically generate your translation(s). If you want to see the original untranslated message along with the translations, Message will do this. If you want to see multiple translations of a single phrase, again, Message is your solution. This is true for every message you receive even if the sender has not subscribed to the service. Likewise, you can choose to translate your outgoing message to a specific language. Even if the recipient has not subscribed to the service, Message is still your solution for sending translated text messages.

Your Vocabulary

Compadre:Message lets you add your own terms and phrases including acronyms and colloquialisms. This includes the ability to add shortcuts to phrases that you frequently use. Instead of typing in the entire message, just enter your shortcut and the translated phrase is sent.

Your Usage Plan

Message is a service provided by your cellular service plan provider. You can subscribe to this service by going to www.speechgear.com/message and selecting the plan that best meets your needs.
